How to start the semester strong?

Get organized

Use a planner to write down important dates, such as assignments, tests, and events.

Set goals

Specific, measurable, attainable, relevant, and time-bound. This can help keep you accountable and focused.

Create a routine

At the beginning of the semester, you should set a routine to accomplish your tasks. The more often you do this, the less you'll have to worry about fitting everything in.

Find a study space

A place with limited distractions and noise that's conducive to concentration, such as a quiet corner of your home or a library.

Get involved

Clubs and organizations often recruit during the first weeks of the semester, and being around like-minded people can help keep you motivated.

HUSKER STUDENT POWER
A foundation for the Husker experience

At the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, POWER is an acronym for key elements that underlie and unify the Husker Student Experience. Embracing the POWER elements - with the support of your Husker community - will help you to make the most of your UNL experience.
